ACADEMIC VACANCY

POSITION: Visiting Assistant Professor in the Center for Advanced Computer Studies (CACS)

RESPONSIBILITIES: The successful applicant will teach three (3) courses in the areas of computer networking and distributed systems, and conduct research during the academic year of Aug. 2015 to May 2016.

QUALIFICATIONS: The applicant must have a Ph.D. in Computer Science, Computer Engineering, or a closely related field. The degree must be completed before August 2015.

ADMINISTRATIVE UNIT: The Ray P. Authement College of Sciences consists of academic departments in the disciplines of Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics, a School of Geosciences and a School of Computing and Informatics.

The School of Computing and Informatics has 30 faculty members with specialties in major branches of computer science, computer engineering, and information systems. The School offers B.S. degrees in computer science and informatics, M.S. degrees in computer science and computer engineering, and Ph.D. degrees in computer science and computer engineering.

The Center for Advanced Computer Studies is a unit within the School of Computing and Informatics and is housed in a state-of-the-art facility designed to support excellence in education and research. CACS comprises numerous research laboratories and centers, supporting cutting-edge research in areas such as communications and networks, computer hardware and systems, databases and web technologies, security and trusted computing, visual and decision informatics, and virtual reality.

The University of Louisiana at Lafayette is a Research University with high research activity public institution with an enrollment of approximately 18,000 students with a full-time faculty of approximately 600. The University offers degree programs in 54 undergraduate disciplines, 20 post bachelor certificates, the master's degree in 26 disciplines, and the doctorate in 10 disciplines. The University of Louisiana at Lafayette is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. Further information about the University is available on the University's web page at http://www.louisiana.edu.
Located midway between New Orleans and Houston, Lafayette is the heart of Louisiana's Acadian-Creole region. The city of over 122,000 is part of the Lafayette-Acadiana area with a total population of 550,000. It is one of Louisiana's fastest-growing metropolitan areas and is the hub of numerous music and cultural festivals and celebrations. Lafayette serves as the base of Louisiana's off-shore oil industry, as well as the financial, retail, and medical center for South-Central Louisiana.

SALARY: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

STARTING DATE: August 2015

APPLICATION: For initial consideration, send application letter, CV, statement of teaching and research philosophy and vision, postal and email addresses of three references to the address below, as a single pdf file. The review process will continue until the position is filled. To ensure consideration, receipt of complete application material is required on or before July 15, 2015.

Dr. Ashok Kumar, Associate Director
School of Computing and Informatics, UL Lafayette
Lafayette, LA 70504-3290
Email: jobs@cacs.louisiana.edu