ACADEMIC VACANCY

POSITION: Visiting Assistant Professor of Special Education. This position is a ten month appointment for the Academic Year 2015-16 only.

RESPONSIBILITIES: The applicant will be responsible for teaching undergraduate and possibly graduate level courses in special education. Additional duties include: supervising student teachers; serving on departmental, college, and/or university task forces or committees; and engaging in scholarly activities. The successful applicant will be expected to participate fully in other activities of the department, college, and university.

QUALIFICATIONS: Preference will be given to applicants with an earned terminal degree in Special Education or Curriculum and Instruction with graduate level emphasis in teaching special education with training in the area of mild disabilities at multiple age levels. Candidates must have at least three years of K-12 classroom experience preferably in two of the following age groups: early childhood, elementary, middle, or secondary levels. Experience teaching at the college level is desirable. In addition, the applicant should have received or show potential for recognition for scholarly publications, grants, and participation in professional organizations and conferences. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, particularly if degree completion is expected by Spring 2016.

ADMINISTRATIVE UNIT: The University of Louisiana at Lafayette is one of 9 publicly supported universities in the University of Louisiana system. UL-Lafayette has an enrollment exceeding 18,000 students with a faculty of almost 600 and offers degree programs in 55 disciplines, the master’s degree in 26 disciplines, and the doctorate in 10 disciplines. The Department of Curriculum and Instruction, an academic department in the College of Education, has approximately 2000 majors and 32 faculty members.
